Contemporary copy of Thai seated Buddha. Subduing Mara –Calling the Earth to Witness (this is the most common representation of the Buddha in Thailand)
The left hand rests in the lap, most probably in this case the right hand points to the ground, slightly touching it. Mara (representing evil) and his horde offer all kinds of earthly ‘pleasures’ such as riches, power, women. However, the Bodisattva scorns it all, and continues to contemplate. This gesture symbolizes enlightenment, as well as steadfastness (imperturbability).
