A GONG ON THE RIVER

NEW CAPSULE COLLECTION 2020

A GONG ON THE RIVER

Reflections and Vibrations. Fluidity.

Think of spring water forming lively little creeks that flow into making a river. Imagine the iridescent reflections of nature painted in changing colors through the vibrations of current and light. Feel the sound of a gong, its soul-shattering vibrations, whose graphic translation creates repetitive and hypnotic geometries. Structure shatters, everything is fluid, free-form. This new KOHRO capsule begins to echo “feminine” accents that can merge and flow, go through life following a precise direction, yet with a natural inclination to change. Just like the course of a river.

These inspirations are the foundation of fabrics and designs that catch the eye and lend to different interior decoration applications. Strong and textured for upholstery with refined geometric patterns (Gong, Mangrovia, Serengeti, Dragomiroff), or light and evanescent for curtains (Savannah, Dalida, Faye, Mikado). Water leads to shades from neutral to powder, from whites to arctic tones, or blending with the colors of nature to express decorative floral elements (Nefti). The delicacy of these motifs contrasts with the curlicues of gong vibrations, creating a formal harmony of small and rhythmic geometries (Mikado, Khnum).

The collection also features fabrics printed on silk and cotton with floral and aquatic themes (Opis, Ninfa). They are the result of a skillful intersection between traditional painting and the latest generation of digital printing technology. Day or night, on the table or the bed, a sensation conjuring relaxation and well-being resonates in the “A Gong on the River” capsule.
